

Telecourse Policy

The Glendale Community College District shall offer a core of telecourses for adult students whose need for learning competes with career commitments, family duties, or health problems. The high quality of instruction in these courses shall be assured by having them go through the same approval process as on-campus faculty. All telecourses shall be supervised directly by the divisions concerned and ultimately by the appropriate deans.